

Joshua Creek Ranch

Hunters' ultimate year-round destination

JOSHUA CREEK RANCH IS NESTLED ON an isolated stretch of the pristine Guadalupe River in the heart of the beautiful Texas Hill Country — a mere 40 minutes northwest of San Antonio. The diverse terrain within the ranch makes perfect habitat for the best upland bird hunting in Texas, and includes fields in the river-bottom land and lightly wooded grass pastures in the hills.

Joshua Creek Ranch offers walk-up hunts behind exceptional pointing and flushing dogs with experienced, professional guides; the high bluffs along the banks of the Joshua Creek and Guadalupe River are the perfect setting for guests to experience the excitement of European-style driven pheasant shooting; and a Continental Shoot site includes positions offering a variety of challenging shots in and out of a wooded area near the banks of Joshua Creek.

Just an hour away is South Central Texas' best dove hunting corridor along Hwy 90 west of San Antonio, where Joshua Creek Ranch shuttles dove hunters for both white-winged and mourning dove shooting. Guests get the combined advantages of some of Texas' best dove hunting along with award-winning dining and lodging at Joshua Creek Ranch. Hunters can opt for add-ons to their dove packages — hunt the Joshua Creek Ranch habitat for quail, a mixed bag of upland birds, driven pheasant and axis deer.

Free-roaming trophy axis deer are hunted year-round, with the greatest proportion of hard-horn bucks occurring between May and September. The protein feed program started 7-plus years ago at the ranch has produced some world-class axis trophies. Native white-tail and Rio Grande turkey are harvested in season.

Sporting enthusiasts also enjoy fly-fishing for rainbow trout in clear, spring-fed Joshua Creek from November through mid-May and year-round gunning on the ranch's fully automated sporting clays course and wobble trap.

Gourmet dining and lodging with spectacular views top off the year-round ultimate outdoor experiences offered at Joshua Creek Ranch, now celebrating 23 years of extraordinary service to sportsmen.

Joshua Creek Ranch is a Beretta Two Trident Lodge for Excellence in Upland Bird Hunting and remains the only Beretta Trident lodge in Texas.
